ITPE webinar: Cybersecurity

IT Professionalism Europe (ITPE) is setting up a new string of webinars on various topics related to developing technologies and the role of IT professionalism. The first event will be centred on cybersecurity, and the competences in demand by companies today.

We are currently looking for professionals (senior managers, junior employees) working with cybersecurity and who are interested to represent their companies at the webinar discussions and speak about their job role – what is expected of a cybersecurity professional? How do you ensure that the team is prepared for the constant threat of increasingly advanced cyber-attacks?

This session will be supplemented with presentations from European representatives working to standardise cybersecurity practices across the region. A key objective will be to relate the developing standards to the experiences described by the professional, who will also be invited to comment on these ongoing initiatives on EU-level.
